

Parenting Tips

- Safety is the most important thing. Live low-key and ensure that kindergartens or schools do the right thing.
- Broaden their perspectives by exposing them to diverse experiences and traveling.
- Avoid forcing them to do things they dislike and minimize their hardships.
- Encourage independence and freedom in decision-making.
- Allow flexible schedules for activities like sleep, especially if you have a flexible lifestyle.
- Foster a love for learning and curiosity; teach practical skills.
- Teach them to handle potentially dangerous situations safely without overprotecting.
- Equip them with practical skills, such as using tools and understanding technology.
- Foster confidence and fearlessness in learning and exploration.
- Teach them to respect others and be polite in interactions.
- Allow them to make their own decisions from an early age.
- Avoid criticizing; always encourage and provide positive reinforcement.
- Introduce them to modern technology and tools to prepare them for the future.
- Share your experiences and learnings with them, and be open to their opinions and ideas.
- Learn from them by observing them and understanding the differences between adults and kids.
- Provide YouTube Kids animations to watch and Apple Arcade and Google Play Pass games to play.
- Use YouTube Premium to download some English animations for kids to watch in the car.
- From 3 years old: Teach how to use a remote control, play mobile games, interact with ChatGPT via voice, and unpack deliveries.
