

Disclaimer

Translation

I normally write essays using one language. And then I use ChatGPT or DeepL to translate them into other languages. So for the essays after 2022.09, I mainly use English to write. And for the essays before 2022.09, I mainly used Chinese to write.

Information Sensitivity

Sometimes I mention friends in essays to highlight points, drawing from public online content or observed behaviors. I discuss these anonymously, aiming to be constructive, with most references being positive or neutral.

Copyrights

You're welcome to share my blog posts via screenshots or links to drive traffic here. If inconvenient, please cite the original source. Using my content to train AI models is fine, but for commercial use, please consider donating if it benefits you. This blog contains unique information, so remember to give credit if it helps you.

Citation

If you use my blog posts for academic purposes or formal writing, please cite them as shown below:

Li, Zhiwei. (Nov 2024). Natural Vision Restoration: The Principle of 'Just Barely Clear' .
Zhiwei's Blog. <https://lzwjava.github.io/barely-clear-en>.

Or

```
@article{li2024naturalvision,
  title    = "Natural Vision Restoration: The Principle of 'Just Barely Clear'", author   = "Li, Zhiwei", journal  = "lzwjava.github.io",
  year     = "2024",
  month    = "Nov",
  url      = "https://lzwjava.github.io/barely-clear-en"
}
```