

The Problems of Conda

See this link, https://www.reddit.com/r/MachineLearning/comments/myl8yn/d_is_anaconda_worth_the_trouble/.

I have problems with conda, and others have discussed similar issues.

Over time, you become unaware of the different environment settings. So, I had to delete the others. Now, I mainly use Python 3.10.9, and occasionally Python 3.11.11. However, I seldom use even Python 3.11.11. Personally, I don't need too many environments. I just need one or two to run what I am currently researching or learning.

I prefer a simpler solution. If I have two projects that conflict with each other, I'd rather use one and forgo running the other.

For instance, encountering the following problem is a real hassle.

conda config --set proxy_servers.http $HTTP_PROXY
conda config --set proxy_servers.https $HTTP_PROXY
```

Although setting a proxy for conda initially seemed to speed things up, I ultimately decided to remove it.
